WAR DECLARATION EXPECTED WHEN ITALIAN HOUSE MEETS THURSDAY

Report in Rome Today Says the Army May Be Mobilized Within the Next Twenty-four Hours

DEPUTIES ALMOST UNIT FOR WAR

Government Announces the Policy Is Fully Determined and Will Be Published Thursday

RAILROADS ARE TAKEN OVER

All Tunnels and Bridges Toward Austrian Line Put Under Heavy Guard

ROME, May 19.—Italy may order the mobilization of her army within twenty-four hours. A declaration of war is not expected until after parliament meets tomorrow to approve the government's war program and it may not come for several days.

These were the reports in circulation today while members of the chamber of deputies were arriving for tomorrow's session. At least 300 members were in Rome early tol day. Newspapers supporting the Salandra cabinet said sentiment among the deputies was almost unanimous for war.

Another session of the cabinet adjourned shortly after midnight today. No statement was given out other than that the government had fully determined on its policy and would make it known when the deputies meet tomorrow.

The military authorities today virtually took charge of all railways in Italy. All bridges and tunnels near the frontier were placed under heavy guard.

As if by a prearranged plan students of the great universities at Rome, Milan, Pavia, Padua, Naples and Palermo today marched en masse to military headquarters and offered themselves as recruits. Similar student demonstrations were reported in other university cities.

Socialists Enlist

The socialist Deputies DeFelice and Labriola this afternoon enlisted in the Italian army. The announcement created a sensation because of the active opposition of many socialists to Italy's entrance into the war.

AMERICAN KILLED

LA CROSSE MAN IS AMONG VICTIMS OF SUNKEN LUSITANIA

Frank B. Tesson Former Resident Who Became the Head of Wanamaker New York Store

BORN ON VINE STREET IN 1866

Later Went to St. Louis and Finally Joined Forces of the Famous Philadelphia Merchant

Who remembers Frank Tesson, who lived on Pine street, between Third and Fourth streets in 1870-71? What do you know about him?

A La Crosse man was among the victims of the Lusitania.

Frank B. Tesson, who once resided on Pine street, in this city, was drowned. His wife, Alice Tesson, also perished

Tesson was born in La Crosse January 14, 1866. His father, Frank Tesson, is shown in the directory of 1871 as residing on Pine street. It has been impossible to trace the movements of the father, but Frank B. Tesson went to work in St. Louis in the early '80's, later accepted a position in Pittsburg, and August 1, 1900, entered the shoe department of the John Wanamaker company, in Philadelphia. In 1898 he was placed in management of Wanamaker's New York shoe store, and held that position until the Lusitania's destruction terminated his career.

Tesson's mother and one sister live in Alton, Ill., another sister in Philadelphia and a brother in St. Louis.

Memorial services for Tesson and his wife were attended by all the employes of the Wanamaker stores.

PEORIANS COMING TO SEE LA CROSSE EARLY TOMORROW

Mayor Bentley Requests All Business Houses to Decorate in Honor of Illinois Men

Mayor Arthur A. Bentley requests that all business houses in the district from Sixth street to the river be decorated with the American flag tomorrow in honor of the visit of the Peoria excursion.

The excursionists will arrive via the Burlington at 9:30 tomorrow morning. They are two hundred strong, and on their immense special train they bring a thirty-six piece brass band and a double male quartet. They come prepared to storm the city with music and oratory.

The special will be met at the depot by Mayor Bentley, municipal officials and aldermen and citizens, who will extend the welcome of the city.

A parade, led by the guests and joined by all who participate in the welcome, will form at the depot and march east in Pearl street to Fourth street, north on Fourth street to State street, east on State to Sixth street, south on Sixth to Main street, west on Main street to the Riverside park, where Mayor A. A. Bentley will welcome the excursionists, and music will be furnished by the Peoria band and double quartet.

Peorians Have a Message

Secretary Van Auken, speaking for the board of trade, gave out the following interview:

"No doubt the business men from Peoria have a message to give to the citizens of La Crosse, and it is the wish that as many of our people as possible will assemble at Riverside park and join in the city's welcome to the excursionists.

"We are to be congratulated that La Crosse was named as one of the cities in the itinerary of the above named excursion, which left their home city May 17th and will have visited 21 cities in Iowa, Minnesota,

SECOND DOLLAR DAY OUTSHINES INITIAL EFFORT

Stores Crowded Soon After Opening with Crowd Resembling Christmas Rush

La Crosse's second Dollar Day passed into history today. With weather conditions almost ideal, every store was crowded with eager bargain seekers. They began to come as soon as the stores were opened, and their numbers increased hourly. In most of the stores the scene resembled a Christmas rush at the last hour.

The merchants wore smiles at the increased business, and their smiles were duplicated by those worn by the many satisfied customers.

Dollar Day is an unqualified success as a bargain event, the present occasion being even more liberally patronized than the first event of the kind which was held March 1. It is planned to hold a Dollar Day four times a year, and judging by its present success, it will be eagerly looked for by both merchants and buying public.

ARREST AMERICAN IN BERLIN WHO INSULTED WILSON

BERLIN, Via The Hague, May 19.—The Berlin police today arrested Maurice Somborn, a naturalized American citizen who was ejected from the American embassy by Ambassador Gerard because of insulting remarks he made about President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

Somborn declared he had lost his passports. The police finally agreed to release him and give him time to search for the passports.

Somborn made a bitter speech in a leading Berlin cafe attacking Secretary Bryan and other Washington officials. He addressed persons at the tables in both German and English creating a scene.

OUTER FORTS OF PRZEMYSL UNDER HOT BOMBARDMENT

Austro-German Advance Is Now So Close That Cannon Can Be Heard in City Itself

PETROGRAD SAYS ADVANCE HALTS

Admitted That Effort to Surround Fortress Is Serious; Insist That Move Is Checked

PETROGRAD, May 19.—Bombardment of the outer forts defending Przemysl from the west by the Austro-Germans is increasing in violence.

Russian aviators report that the enemy has brought up heavy pieces in the vicinity of Babice. The boom of the guns continued throughout the day, and the noise of the battle can be heard distinctly within the city itself.

The Germans north of Przemysl are making a serious attempt to surround the fortress, but have been driven back with heavy losses. The Austrians west of Chyrof, south of Przemysl, have been unable to advance.

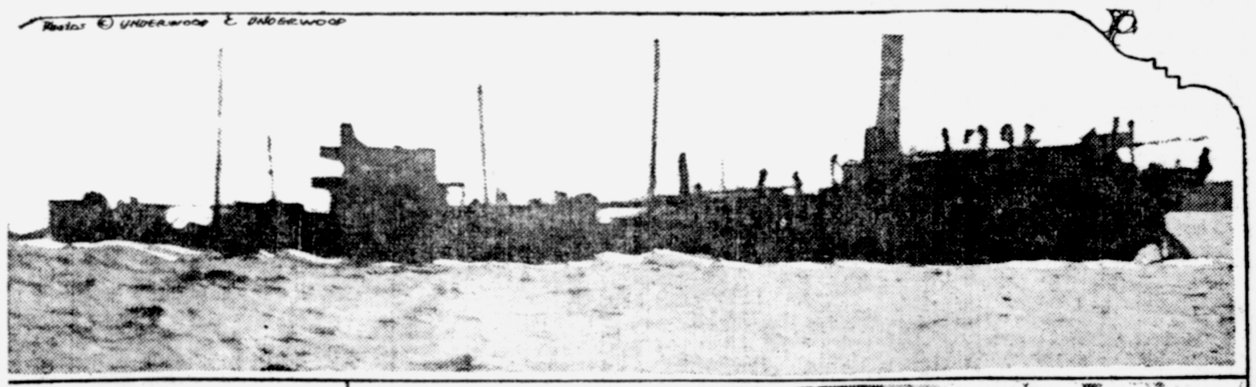
WISCONSIN LEADS IN GUERNSEY BREED

MADISON, Wis., May 19.—Wisconsin continues to lead in the breeding of Guernsey cattle.

This fact was brought out at the meeting of the American Guernsey Cattle club held in New York City last week. There are more breeders of this Channel Island breed in Wisconsin than in any other state in the union, and some of the most noted herds both from a production and showring standpoint are owned by Badger stockmen.

Former Governor W. D. Hoard of Fort Atkinson was elected vice president of the club.

U. S. STEAMER GULFLIGHT AND CREW SNAPPED AFTER GERMANS TORPEDOED VESSEL



Gulflight sinking (top) and members of her crew snapped aboard the English patrol boat which picked them up.

These pictures are of special interest just now by reason of the fact that the German government in its answer to President Wilson's note is expected to offer reparation for the loss of the vessel, her captain and two other members of her crew. The vessel was torpedoed off the Scilly Islands on May 1. She was bound from Port Arthur, Texas, to England, and was laden with a tank cargo of gasoline and wooden barrels of lubricating oil. The vessel did not sink immediately and it is believed that the three members of her crew who were lost might have been saved if they had kept their heads. President Wilson in his note to the German government declared that the submarine attack on the Guflight was uncalled for and wholly at variance with the rules of international law.

FISHER RESIGNS AND CABINET OF BRITAIN CHANGES

Coalition of Unionist and Liberal Leaders Will Replace Present Government

CHURCHILL TO LEAVE POST

MASON BLAMES KITCHENER PLAN

American Observer Says the English Are Dissatisfied Because "K" Has Failed to Deliver

LONDON, May 19.—Premier Asquith in the house of commons this afternoon announced that a "reconstruction of the ministry on a broader political basis is under consideration."

This announcement from the prime minister was regarded as official confirmation of the report that a coalition is to replace the present liberal ministry.

"Any change to be made in the cabinet will not affect the prime minister himself, the foreign secretary, Sir Edward Grey, or Tngland's policy for the prosecution of the war," Asquith announced.

LONDON, May 19.—Great Britain today faced a serious ministerial crisis, the outgrowth of dissatisfaction with the progress of the war and constant friction among government heads. Before many hours a new cabinet, drawn to restore confidence in the government and representative of all parties, almost certainly will be nominated. The new ministry, it is reported, will include at least five new members.

Unionists in New Cabinet

According to J. L. Garvin, who is probably the best informed political writer in the country, the cabinet is to be entirely reformed and a coalition cabinet which will include the principal Unionist leaders is to take its place.

The crisis was brought about by an acute disagreement between Lord Fisher, admiral of the fleet, and Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, in regard to the naval policy to be pursued at the Dardanelles.

Lord Fisher Resigns

"Following the crisis in the admiralty," Mr. Garvin writes in the Pall Mall Gazette, "Lord Fisher has resigned and is departing immediately for Scotland. This makes Mr. Churchill's retention of his post impossible and has also brought down the government.

"A national ministry is now about to be formed. The chief opposition leaders have already agreed to enter the government.

"Lord Fisher and Mr. Churchill split over the Dardanelles but there was also a fundamental incompatibility.

Churchill is Shelved

"Mr. Asquith will remain as premier. Arthur J. Balfour, Tory, is expected to be the first lord of the admiralty; Mr. Churchill secretary for India; Lord Crewe, Tory, president of the council; Mr. Lloyd George the new minister for war supplies; Bonar Law, Tory, chancellor of the exchequer, and Austin Chamberlain, Tory, colonial secretary.

"Lord Reading will become lord chancellor; Sir John Simon, lord chief justice, and F. E. Smith, attorney general. Lord Derby will also have a post."

Viscount Haldane, Augustine Berrill, Lewis Harcourt, and Earl Beauchamp were said to be slated for retirement. The new ministry, it was reported in official circles, was to include strong unionist and labor leaders who would bring to the government the popularity it has lacked during the trying days of the war.

Kitchener's Failure, Says Mason

(BY J. W. T. MASON)

NEW YORK, May 19.—The failure of Lord Kitchener's nine months dictatorship is the basic cause of the ministerial crisis in England. The immediate reason for the formation of a coalition cabinet is a dispute at the admiralty between the chief head and the first sea lord; but the clash between Winston Churchill and Lord Fisher would not have involved the government as a whole if the experiment of assigning the government of England to a military organizer had not proved disastrous.

Great Britain has gradually been awakening to the fact during the past two months that the war is not progressing satisfactorily for the allies. With the arrival of spring, Englishmen expected a quick turn of events in France and Flanders, which would establish in fact an indisputable ascendancy over the Germans. For half a year Lord Kitchener has been given a free hand. He was to be the saviour of the empire. All the other members of the government bowed to him. Nearly all parliamentary announcements concerning the war were made in his name. He was the superman in British imagination. Lord Kitche-

KAISER REPORTED TO HAVE CALLED HALT FOR PRESENT IN UNDERSEA WAR

No Official Word Is Received but German Embassy Officials Say It Has Been Done

WILSON PLANNING NOTE TO ALLIES?

Warning Affirming Right to Trade as U. S. Pleases Within Legal Limits Is Urged on President

NOT TO BE BARGAIN WITH GERMANY

German Demands Stand Alone but Note to Allies Is Urged as Indicating U. S. Good Faith

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The United States was uninformed officially today that Germany had called a halt in her submarine warfare on merchant shipping. Certain German embassy officials declared such action had been taken, temporarily, but no word had been received from Ambassador Gerard announcing it.

If this has been done, officials agreed, it would indicate that Germany is at least in a conciliatory mood.

Hope for an immediate reply from Berlin has been abandoned because of the Italian crisis. If there are no further killings of Americans, or destruction of ships carrying women and children, it was understood unlikely that the Uinted States will press for an answer until the Italian crisis has passed.

Doubt Refusal Rumors

Flat statements from Berlin that Germany will refuse to abandon her submarine warfare were generally accepted as representing the military and navy elements' views. Officials did not deem this group sure to have its way.

The growing belief that the administration is about to demand that the allies observe international law in their blockade against Germany may become a potent factor in the final settlement. It was pointed out that Germany entered the submarine campaign because she declared her people were facing starvation. The German note to the United States declared that neutrals were taking no steps to safeguard their own commerce, so Germany was compelled to act.

Urge Warning to Allies

President Wilson's demand on Germany, diplomats tacitly concede, was peremptory under the nice sounding phrases of diplomacy. It left Germany no alternative; either she must accept the American position or friendly relations must be broken off. The same sort of a note to England, affirming the Americans' right to trade with whom they please so long as it is not in contraband, it is said, would put the allies in the same position as Germany.

The movement to have the president take this step is backed by the cotton men of the south, headed by Senator Hoke Smith, by the dye importers of the east and by the grain and provision men of the middle west.

President Wilson has not indicated his attitude on this matter. The one thing that has been emphasized in official quarters, is that there will be no bargaining with Germany.

Any action the administration may take to revise the allies' blockade, which the United States is already on record as considering a violation of international law, it has been stated, will have no direct reference to what Germany does. Nevertheless, oficials suggested that action by the United States along this line would show the German public that the United States is not, as has been charged, discriminating against Germany.

It was agreed that if the German delay really is due to the Italian situation it will be accepted in good faith, but that if Germany simply wishes to see whether this government will address a note to Great Britain, demanding that she call off her food blockade of Germany, the latter will be disappointed. It is understood to be the president's plan to let the British blockade and questions growing out of it remain in status quo until after the German reply is received.

This is declared absolutely necessary if the matter is to be kept free of suspicion of bargaining.

Announcement that the British steamer Drumcree had fallen victim to a German submarine came as an unpleasant surprise, officials having believed that the German submarine warfare against merchant vessels had been indefinitely interrupted.

Further evidences of the manner in which neutrals are standing together came today when Minister Ritter asked the United States to take over Swiss affairs in China. Singling out the United States at this time, in the light of the fact that a number of Swiss lost their lives on the Lusitania, was considered significant. It was already SOUTH RIDGE, MINN.

SOUTH RIDGE, Minn., May 19.—(Special.)—Fred Arnet died at his father's home near Mound Prairie on Monday morning. He was about 21 years of age, and had graduated from the Houston high school about two years ago. He was taken with tuberculosis and suffered for nearly two years. He will be buried Thursday afternoon at the Tabor church, Rev. Ristie conducting the funeral services.

Rev. Ristie and family moved to Wells during the first part of this week, but he will return to conduct the funeral services.

Charles Radtke returned from Rushford where he spent several days with his brother, Milton.

Rheumatic Fever

In the treatment of Rheumatic Fever many physicians employ purgatives, but Dr. M. P. Creed thinks that a mild laxative is better. When the patient is bilious he gives calomel in small doses, one-fifth of a grain every hour until a grain has been taken. Then after four hours he gives the patient a half ounce of citrate of magnesia, with syrup of lemon to disguise the taste, or he keeps the bowels open with the mild laxative "Actolds." The diet should be light, and all animal food should be excluded as far as possible from the dietary. For the pain and fever he has found nothing equal to Anti-Kamnia Tablets, giving two tablets every 2 to 3 hours as required. These tablets may be obtained from all druggists in any quantity desired. REVOLT NEWS TO EMBASSY

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Ghosts Daddy Saw In the Mist.

The Ghosts Turned Into Motorcars.

"OH, daddy, there aren't any ghosts!" cried the kiddies as daddy told them he was going to tell about the ghosts he saw in the mist.

"Don't believe your old daddy?" he cried, giving Jack and Evelyn soft little pats on their pretty round red cheeks. "Well, I'll just convince you that I saw any number of them one day when I went for a walk in a great big park one misty spring morning.

"There isn't a nicer time in the world to walk than in the rain or mist, kiddies. The earth looks so clean and the air feels so fresh as it blows against your cheeks that you feel just like shouting with joy because life is so good and you are so happy.

"Well, that was the way I felt this morning in the mist as I started for my walk, and it was at the very entrance to the park that I first began seeing the ghosts.

"Straight ahead of me were two wraithlike looking creatures. 'Why,' I said to myself, 'I wonder what this means?'

"I hastened to the spot, and what do you think, kiddies? Two white statues bathed in mist were standing there, just as they had stood for years, but the mist had made them seem like ghosts to me.

"Then as I stood there objects began to fly past me. I couldn't see any road. I couldn't see what they were, so curiously I wandered away from the statues to discover what these other ghosts, which, by the way, were black, might be."

"Black ghosts! He, he!" giggled the kiddies.

"Well, they were black," insisted daddy, "but pretty soon I came to a road which had been hidden from me by the mist, and then the ghosts turned into motorcars, wheeling swiftly past me on the road, coming out of the mist I knew not whence and vanishing into the mist I knew not where.

"Why, kiddies, the whole park was filled with ghosts—ghosts of trees from which came the lilting songs of ghostly birds and ghosts of tiny lakes upon which floated beautiful ghostly white swans.

"Then something happened. Through the mist, coloring it with violet and pink and all the shades of the rainbow, shot golden arrows from the quiver of the sun, and in an instant the mist had vanished, and the ghosts went with it."

"Oh, daddy, that must have been a pretty sight!" cried Evelyn.

"It was, very," agreed daddy. "And now I know two sleepy kiddies who must skip to bed."

MRS. LA FOLLETTE TELLS QUIZZERS PEACE IS RIGHT

Roosevelt "Phenomenal Ultimatum" Scored by Wife of Former Governor Who Decries War

MADISON, Wis, May 19.—Former President Roosevelt's attack on the woman's peace party is made the subject of a reply by Mrs. Robert M. La Follette today. She declares that instead of the movement being "silly and base" and "influenced by physical cowardice" as characterized by Mr. Roosevelt, the teaching of the folly of voluntarily destroying in one great holocaust what the constructive powers of humanity have taken centuries to build up is not an "ignoble abandonment of national duty," but the highest patriotic service.

"Plainly Mr. Roosevelt rests his phenomenal ultimatum on the assumption that war is the only means of settling international differences and moreover that war is bound to settle them right," said Mrs. La Follette. "Now the Woman's peace party bases its existence on the fundamental principle that war today is the negation of progress and civilization and that it does not of necessity settle things right, that it may instead trample liberty and humanity underfoot and that history demonstrates that imperfect and temporary plans of mediation, conciliation and abitration have been more effective than war in securing justice.

"In the days of duelling there were doubtless good causes and bad causes, good duels and bad duels. But today society says to the individual, be your cause good or bad, you cannot settle it with murder, you must submit it to the courts. And we answer Mr. Roosevelt that the rights and wrongs of the great world war now raging are but the incidents of the great evil of war itself, and it is against that great evil, not its special phases and manifestations, that the Woman's Peace party is directing its organized effort.

"He charges that the peace movement is influenced by physical fear or moral cowardice. Is not the peace movement grounded in the teachings of Christianity? And was Christ cowardly? Who questions that the woman half of the world has suffered death and pain and discomfort far beyond that of all its warriors? Are not the forty American women who voluntarily cross the perilous seas to participate in The Hague conference, and who are now endeavoring to personally reach the powers of Europe with their plea—are they not demonstrating the courage of conviction?

"The trouble with Mr. Roosevelt is that he is intoxicated with a false idea of war."

The reply is published in La Follette's Magazine today.

OLD MEN DON'T DESERT

CHICAGO, May 19.—Age is the most binding link in the matrimonial chain. After a careful search among the divorce courts, Mrs. Leonora Meder, former commissioner of public welfare, announced today she could find but one case where a man over 60 had deserted his wife.

The danger spot is between 25 and 30, she found. Twenty-three per cent of the couples marrying between 20 and 25 seek divorces.

"Children are the binding links next to age," said Mrs. Meder

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

MISS DREW'S SECRETARY

BY JEANNE KILBY

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Carlotta Drew pushed away the account book that littered her desk and sighed wearily.

"Oh, dear, I never can make these books balance," she panted. "I wish Miss Smith had not been so stupid or Miss Hart so slovenly. I simply can't get along without a secretary."

"I thought you advertised for one," observed her aunt and companian, Mrs. Marsh.

"I did, but there was not one answer that sounded well—they were all impossible."

"You might try one of the secretarial schools," suggested Mrs. Marsh, bending over her embroidery.

"I will—I must have someone at once."

Carlotta picked up the receiver and telephoned her wishes:

"Send along anyone who is fairly intelligent," she wailed at last.

"There," she said, looking defiantly at her aunt, "they are sending up a young man."

"A young man!" echoed Mrs. Marsh. "Are you crazy, Carlotta?"

"Only desperate, Aunt Anna."

"I shall send him away again."

"Not until he has straightened out my accounts. I make them say that I have spent just four dollars instead of five hundred in the last month, and yet my check book shows I have overdrawn my account."

"What a muddle," sighed Mrs. Marsh. "You really ought to marry a good business man, my dear, some one who can look after you and your property."

"I met a man last summer," she began. Then, biting her lips to keep back a secret she had not dared confess to any one but herself, she added gaily, "I'm going out, Aunt Anna. If the young man comes tell him to straighten out my books. I'll be home before he leaves."

She glanced out of the room, and Mrs. Marsh reminded of the coming secretary and of her entire disapproval of such an appendage to their household in the person of a young man, determined that she would hold him to his job.

"I'll have no idling," she murmured resentfully, "and if they send some young popinjay who tries to capture Carlotta and her money, I'll soon send him flying!" For Aunt Anna was a very serious-minded woman, who felt the gravity of her position as chaperon to a young and rather impulsive heiress.

It was an hour after Carlotta's departure when Biggs brought in a card.

"Mr. Anthony Lester."

"Humph!" sniffed Mrs. Marsh, looking coldly at the tall, self-possessed young man who regarded her so affably. "My niece is out at present. She wants you to wait until she returns. No use wasting your time, though. I suppose you are good at figures?"

He stared at her.

"Rather," he stammered.

"I should think you would have to be," retorted Mrs. Marsh, pointedly. "Miss Drew said you might straighten out her books—there on the desk—find out what the trouble is."

Lester smiled and sat down at the desk. Presently Mrs. Marsh noted that he was working busily over the offending accounts. For a long time there was no sound in the room save the scratch of his pen and the falling of coals in the grate.

He worked so steadily that Aunt Anna's heart warmed toward him. She would reward him with a little amiable conversation. It would be something pleasant to take back to his lonely hall bedroom—this recollection of the condescension of a great lady.

As a matter of fact, Mrs. Marsh was not a "great" lady at all. She was a very simple-minded country woman who had come to take charge of her dead brother's household when the newly orphaned Carlotta found herself alone, and Aunt Anna had remained, enjoying the quiet luxury of the house, but content to allow Carlotta's other aunt, the fashionable Mrs. Slade, to introduce the girl to society.

But Aunt Anna felt vastly superior to the "secretary young man," and so she permitted him to bask in the sunshine of her notice.

"Are you married?" she asked abruptly.

"Good heavens—no!" he laughed. "I was married for twenty years and I never had one single regret. My husband has been dead for ten years. Ours was a perfect marriage," sighed Mrs. Marsh, now on her favorite topic, "and I dislike to hear young people laugh flippantly at matrimony."

Lester colored. "I assure you," he said gently, "I had no intention of laughing. It was the idea of your thinking I would be here—" His voice trailed into embarrassed silence.

Aunt Anna Marsh sat up stiffly and regarded him over the tops of her eyeglasses.

"Young man," she said sternly, "when you came here this afternoon did you know that my niece, Miss Drew, is very, very rich indeed?"

Lester had the grace to blush quite perceptibly.

"Yes," he said at last.

"I thought so," she said.

Lester got up and paced the floor. Now he was scowling in a most unpleasant manner, but even the black look didn't mar his handsome face. Aunt Anna admitted to herself that he looked like an actor in a tragic scene.

"Can't a man marry a rich girl without being called a fortune hunter?" he suddenly asked.

"No!" exploded Aunt Anna indignantly.

"Riches bring cares and sacrifices," said Aunt Anna, virtuously. "And, now, Mr.—er—Lester, eh?" glancing at his card, "suppose you finish up those accounts before my niece returns."

"First, I would like to ask you a question—does your niece share your views—that every man—no! I won't doubt her for an instant!" He turned toward the desk.

The door flew open and in came a radiant Carlotta, her blue eyes agleam with the glad light of surprise and her cheeks agow.

"Anthony! Anthony! you dear!" she cried, and she went straight into the arms of the "secretary young man," who held her closely.

Aunt Anna shut her eyes upon the horrifying sight.

"And there is the poor secretary waiting in the hall," cried Carlotta, releasing herself from Lester's arms.

"The secretary! Carlotta Drew, who is this young man?" demanded Mrs. Marsh in a tragic tone.

"Why it's Anthony Lester, the man I almost told you about—it's a secret that we love each other, and I suppose now our engagement must be announced. Who did you think he was, auntie?" she asked curiously.

Lester gallantly came to the rescue and Aunt Anna never forgot it. She took him to her heart even before she discovered that he was considerably richer than Carlotta.

"Why, who did you think he was?" repeated the girl curiously.

"Mrs. Marsh asked me to help straighten out your accounts," he interposed tactfully. "I've brought order out of chaos, but there's still one more thing to settle."

A small, dapper-looking youth, with owlish, spectacled eyes, entered the room meekly.

"This is Mr. Mook, the secretary, Aunt Anna," said Carlotta.

THAT TIRED FEELING

Relieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla, Which Renovates the Blood

That tired feeling that comes to you in the spring, year after year, is a sign that your blood lacks vitality, just as pimples, boils and other eruptions are signs that it is impure; and it is also a sign that your system is in a low or run-down condition inviting disease. It is a warning, which it is wise to heed.

Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. This old standard tried and true blood medicine relieves that tired feeling. It cleanses the blood, gives new life, new courage, strength and cheerfulness. It makes the rich red blood that will make you feel, look, eat and sleep better.

Be sure to get Hood's, because it is the best. There is no other combination of roots, barks and herbs like it—no real substitute for it—no "just-as-good" medicine.

BLIZZARD HARMS WESTERN CROPS

Colorado and Western Nebraska Gripped by Unseasonable Winter Weather

DENVER, Colo., May 19.—A blizzard of real wintry proportions, with a drop in the thermometer to below freezing, raged here yesterday afternoon. While snow is not unusual in this climate during May and the record late fall was May 31 five years ago, yesterday's storm in violence outclassed anything ever seen here for May. Several inches of snow fell. Railroads schedules were upset by the blizzard.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 19. — A blanket of snow covers the western third of Nebraska. Several inches have fallen, according to reports from Alliance, and the storm, accompanied by freezing temperatures and a high northeasterly wind, assumed the proportions of a blizzard.

Crops in the eastern and central sections of Nebraska have not been damaged by low temperatures, but the situation in the western and northern sections is said to be serious.

Because It Had No Hard Usage.

A couple were discussing a certain cheap store, he in defense and she the negative. "Say, look at this pocketbook. I bought it for a dime almost a year ago. Not worn a bit," he said. "Well, that's because you don't take it out of your pocket enough," she said, and the argument was closed.—Kansas City Star.

Sure Way to Kill Rats

Worst and Most Expensive Household Nuisance

Millions of dollars of property are destroyed yearly by rats simply because people do not appreciate the destructive power of rats and do not know how easy it is to kill them. Simply get a two-ounce box of Stearns Electric Paste from your druggist for twenty-five cents and use it at night in accordance with the simple directions, and in the morning there should not be a rat in the house.

Nothing else is as effective as Stearns Electric Paste in exterminating rats, mice, cockroaches and other vermin. The government uses it in its fight against rats. Directions in fifteen languages in every package.

PRISONERS BREAK OUT OF CELLS AND ROB JAIL SAFE BEFORE GETAWAY

CHICAGO, May 19.—After a veritable dime novel robbery and escape from the Racine, Wis., jail, Carl Miller, 29, his wife, Mary, 33, and Charles Jones, were captured here early today by Captain W. B. George, of the Evanston police department. They were to be returned this afternoon.

The Millers and Jones, in some mysterious way, unlocked their cells yesterday in the Racine jail, went to Sheriff Samuel Howard's office and found him asleep. They knocked the combination from the safe and got, according to Racine police, $1,000 in currency.

Leaving the jail the three are accused of commandeering an automobile which they abandoned at Kenosha. There they took a taxicab.

In the meantime Racine police had sent notification to a dozen cities. Captain George of Evanston saw a taxicab containing the Millers and Jones stop before an Evanston garage and, when the three got out, arrested them.

WELCOME OUR PEORIA FRIENDS

Alderman Funk, with time by the forelock, slapped up that Riverside Park bandstand while the first contributor was making change. And with a broad smile Mr. Van Auken appropriated it for the Peoria visitors, whose band will initiate it into the brotherhood of La Crosse institutions tomorrow. That's hitting the ball.

"Beautiful is the sun, oh Stranger,
When you come so far to see us," sang Hiawatha,

"Never before had our tobacco
Such a sweet and pleasant flavor,"

and can we be less hospitable than the redmen who in this very valley welcomed the white explorer? Civilization forbid! Let's be at the depot tomorrow "with lard in our hair," to greet these enterprising Peoria pilgrims.

And get out Old Glory. There should be a flag on every building in the business district, from Sixth street to the river.

THE TEST OF CITIZENSHIP

Immediately upon President Wilson's adoption of a definite position in the Lusitania matter, as set forth in the note to Germany, German-Americans and German-American societies from all parts of the country flooded Washington with assurances of loyalty and support. It was a reassuring demonstration, disclosing that in the United States the propaganda of a foreign nation, while it may be successful as against another foreign country, is without force as between the United States and any other government.

That is the general condition, but there are individual cases in which the quality of citizenship is strained by the German war cloud, and the tension to which this international incident put us has raised a question as to the sufficiency of the test of fitness which we apply to applicants for the franchise.

It may further suggest that it is within the scope of national authority and duty to insist that immigrants be surrounded or at least in touch with influences calculated to aid the transfer of allegiance from their parent country to that of their adoption.

The miscarriage of our system is largely due to misconception as to the character of allegiance. Loyalty is a sentiment, rather than a conviction; it is instinctive rather than intellectual. It is felt before it is thought. It can no more be renounced or created by court records than can human affection. And patriotism simply is the loyalty of a man for his country. He can not will it, he must experience it. When he comes, a stranger, by adoption, he must grow into the sense of nationality through those noble and inspiring attributes of government that appeal to emotion and intelligence.

Nor should it be forgotten that he who is capable of the most exalted citizenship comes with the greatest handicap, for he has the strongest feeling for his parent country and hence the most to renounce. One is born in a foreign land, bred into its national sense, inspired to its patriotism by parental precept, military enthusiasm, national oratory and song. He comes to the United States and in five years is declared a citizen. War threatens and, by the law we make, the loyalty of his childhood that was a rare virtue beyond the ocean becomes a crime.

This man did not mean to practice a deception. He was not conscious that he took a false oath. But here he is, by legal formality a duly constituted American citizen, yet at heart bound to another people by deep-rooted sympathy. No wrong was intended, but a grave wrong was done both to the man and to the nation. Where is the trouble?

When the immigrant heads for America he is thinking primarily of its advantages and too little of his compensating obligations. He prospers, and decides to stay. He asks to be made a citizen, and we take him in upon a too perfunctory examination as to his qualifications and intentions. In most cases the necessary change has taken place within the man, but occasionally there comes one unprepared, yet unconscious either of an unrelinquished loyalty to the fatherland or lack of patriotism for his adopted land. His feeling is dormant, and no vital test stirs his emotions. Often the transaction is as matter-of-fact as the purchase of a pig.

Here two thoughts present themselves for consideration. First is the idea that no man should be made a documentary citizen of the United States who is not a citizen of the United States at heart. There should be such a test as would stir the latent feeling and put the question of allegiance unto death squarely up to the applicant. Largely the remedy may rest with the thoroughness of the court, in the vigorous catechizing of the applicant and the rejection of all who fail to show complete understanding and genuine feeling.

The second consideration is that the government should exert itself to prepare the immigrant for citizenship.

Upon arrival here a percentage of them tend to gravitate into national groups. Many of them cling to the language and the literature of the fatherland. They read its newspapers, their pastors employ its speech, their schools teach its tongue to their children. They live and think in terms of the old country.

It is this class of immigrants who are slowest to relinquish the old ideals, the old ways, the old allegiance; it is they whom time brings to the oath of American citizenship before they are prepared for it.

It would seem within the province of government to prescribe as much of the lives of such immigrants as is necessary to break the old bonds and set them free to work out the new destiny. Not until that is done, and not until we accept and apply the truth that the test of citizenship is in the heart, shall we arrive on safe ground with reference to naturalization.

PUBLIC DEBATE

OPPOSE WAR AND ALL AGITATION FOR WAR

Fellow Citizens:

The insidious propaganda of American militarism has received a powerful impetus through the destruction of American lives on the Lusitania as a result of the war operations in Europe. The jingo press of the country is busily engaged in reckless efforts to turn the cries of natural indignation of the people into a savage howl of revenge. Short-sighted "patriots" and professional militarists are inflaming the minds and blinding the reason of their fellow citizens by their appeals to national vanity. The sinister influences of the armanent ring work through thousands of hidden channels to stimulate a war sentiment, which to it means business and profit.

In this grave hour of national crisis, the socialist party of the United States raises its voice in solemn and emphatic protest against this dangerous and criminal agitation, and proclaims its undying opposition to militarism and war. No disaster, however appalling; no crime, however revolting, justifies the slaughter of nations and the devastation of countries.

The destruction of the Lusitania and the killing of hundreds of noncombatants, men, women and children on board the steamer, brings more closely home to us the fiendish savagery of warfare and should inspire us with stronger determination than ever to maintain peace and civilization at any cost.

Strong armaments and military preparations inevitably and irresistibly lead to war as the tragic example of the nations of Europe has conclusively proved.

We call upon the people of the United States to profit by the unfortunate lesson of our brothers on the Atlantic ocean and to throttle all efforts to draw this country into the dangerous paths of international quarrels, imperialism, militarism and war.

We call particularly upon the workers of America to oppose war and all agitation for war by the exercise of all the power at their command, for it is their class who pays the awful cost of warfare, without receiving any of its rewards. It is the workers who primarily furnish the soldiers on the battlefield and give their limbs and lives in the senseless quarrels of their exploiting masters.

Let us proclaim in tones of unmistakable determination: "Not a man, not a dollar for war," not a worker's arm shall be lifted for the slaying of a fellow worker of another country, nor turned for the production of man-killing implements or war supplies!

Down with war! Forward to international peace and worldwide solidarity of the Workers!

A Second "Under Two Flags"

THE RED MIRAGE

By L. A. R. WYLIE

Author of The Native Born, The Daughter of Brahma, Etc.

Copyright The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

"Farquhar sacrificed himself," he said. "Arnaud was to marry Sylvia Omney, and Farquhar's love was a strange chivalrous thing, hard to realize in these days. That much I understood—afterward. What I understood at the time was that he had made his loss final. He told you that he had resigned his commission on that same morning. Have you never considered what that meant?"

"Often. I thought—"

"You thought wrong. Farquhar did not resign for that reason. He resigned because Sower wished it. That seems incredible. But Sower held the reins. There was an old tragedy which he used for his own ends—the tragedy of his father's death and of Captain Farquhar's disappearance."

There was a little silence. Preston stared out into the darkness.

"Well?" he said.

"Captain Sower's father was a financier by name, and scoundrel—as I am—by profession. Captain Farquhar did not know that. He borrowed money from him. He gave a valuable military discovery into Sower's hands in order that with Sower's financial assistance it might be offered in practical form to the government. Sower offered the plans to France. Captain Farquhar understood too late with whom he had dealt. He had no redress, no proofs, but the papers had to be regained. He murdered Sower."

Preston did not move. The roll of drums was close at hand, and a woman's note of laughter fluttered up bird-like from the somber-flowing tide of sound.

"Well?" he repeated.

Lowe turned back to the window.

"You see, Sower too had miscalculated," he went on. "He was a Jew from God knows where, and he lost his sense of patriotism. He did not understand the reckless temperament of the man with whom he was dealing. He thought he had outmaneuvered Farquhar, and that Farquhar would bow to his condition. Farquhar shot him down like a dog."

"It was not murder," said Preston between his teeth.

"Not more so than t he shooting of a traitor on the field of battle. Sower, who lived half an hour or so, realized that much. And it was then that a rather curious thing happened—one of these touches of human nature that lend a certain grandeur to very sordid tragedy. Both these men had sons. Both these men realized that their own careers were over. There was nothing left to be saved but their children and their children's names. On Sower's deathbed they made their compact. Farquhar regained his plans and his freedom, but he paid for it with a confession that made him an exile. To the last Sower had played a winning hand. Farquhar left the country—lion-shooting. Sower died—from an accidental gunshot and was buried in honor. His son came into an inheritance of wealth and a confession. Are you beginning to understand, Mr. Preston?"

A sudden clash of music drowned the thud of marching feet and the low hum of expectation. The band of the Foreign Legion swept into lines of light, and a hoarse chorus of voices caught up the refrain—

"Toujours, ma foi, le soc au does—"

"Yes, I am beginning to understand," Preston said duily. "And then?"

"Then history repeated itself—not in incident, but in character. Robert Sower tried to be the honorable gentleman; he tried even, strange as it may seem, to gain Farquhar's friendship. He failed, and then—you remember that scene at the card-table? That decided him. Blood and instinct were too strong. He turned and used his power."

"And Farquhar?"

"I imagine it came upon him like a thunderbolt. He bought his father's confession at the price Sower asked. It was a reckless act. Had he waited he would have seen that Sower's hands were tied as completely as they had ever been—that it was to Sower's own advantage to keep silence. But on the face of it he saw only that his father had murdered, and that the one course open to him was to yield. He went into exile. That is all that I can tell you, Mr. Preston."

The boy straightened, his features in the faint light that flooded up from the street showing white and haggard.

"I went to Mrs. Farquhar," he said; "but she distrusts and hates me. She would tell me nothing."

"She knows nothing."

"And you?" Lowe made no answer. He stepped out on to the balcony, and bent forward with his elbows on the rail, watching the dense company of chasseurs force their way through the restless crowd. The clash of the band was already fainter. The chasseurs rode now in silence, and once more the dull monotonous tread predominated, strangely, persistently ominous. "You know where Farquhar is?" Preston said imperatively. "You know what has become of him?"

"Perhaps—I am not sure."

"If you know remorse you must wish to atone," Preston said hoarsely.

"A scoundrel, at the end of his day's work, has much to atone for," was the abstracted answer. "I have chosen my atonement, Mr. Preston. All atonement is inadequate, but mine shall be made—for my greatest wrong, at whatever cost—" He broke off. "The Legion," he said quietly.

Preston did not speak, silenced against his will by the scene beneath him. The dancers from the hotel had swarmed up to the long lines of hanging lanterns at the edge of the garden. A clown climbed up on the stone gate-post and was beating wildly, hilariously on the heads of the crowd with his bladder, shouting a witticism at each laughing victim. The light from a red-painted lantern fell full upon him, on his dead-white, upturned face, on the vivid colors of his dress. Some mad carnival picture had come to life; all the world's joyous recklessness, its daring challenge to life itself was epitomized in that single figure, on the sea of fantastic men and women swaying at his feet. But beyond a thin dark stream flowed from the darkness into the light and from light back into darkness. They were grotesque figures—hideous, pitiable. It was as though a saturnine mind, some stupendous satirist had painted a bitter pendant, a savage comment on the scene of wild insouciant civilization. These also were figures of carnival—but different. They marched four deep—a hundred of them. Their heads were bowed. The heavy toneless music of their tread was broken up now into distinct sounds, and every sound a long-drawn-out note of suffering and exhaustion. Beneath the flare of lights each man seemed to shrink, to cower closer to his neighbor, like a herded terrified animal. And many stumbled. Preston's hands tightened on the rails in front of him.

CHAUTAUQUA HERE IS WOMEN'S PLAN FOR NORTH SIDE

The north side will have a full-fledged chautauqua this summer if plans of the North Side Progressive league are successful. Motions for boosting a chautauqua here were made at a recent meeting of the league. The La Crosse Woman's club support for the league in the proposition will be solicited this afternoon by C. Durant Jones of the Jones Chautauqua system of Perry, Ia., at the meeting of the club at the home of Mrs. A. A. Bentley.

As planned now by J. G. Dubraks, president of the Progressive league, the skating rink at Clinton and Rose streets will be used for the assembly. The site is centrally located on the north side and has been picked by the league as the best location obtainable. Electric light poles, which are used in the winter for illumination of the skating rink, can be used for lighting of the chautauqua at night. The rink is but a block from the street car line, making the assembly easily accessible for residents of both sides of the city.

The chautauqua will be siix days in duration, as now planned, with the opening day probably on Sunday. The latter part of July has been selected as a tentative time for the chautauqua.

Twelve distinct programs are planned for the assembly. The first and last days will be given over to musical programs exclusively while the other four days will be divided between musical and lecture programs alternating between the afternoons and evenings. Some of the greatest of chautauqua entertainers, musical, platform and theatrical, are procurable by the Jones system and are ready to come to La Crosse on a word of the sponsors here.

Support of the La Crosse Woman's club was considered proper by the Progressive league, as the club is the largest of its nature on the north side.

The school savings bank of Public School No. 77 of Borough of Queens, New York city has had $4,300 deposited in it in the three years of its existence. More than half of this amount is still on deposit either with the school bank or with a State Savings bank.

Had Lung Trouble and Expected to Die

The many recoveries brought about by Eckman's Alterative are attracting wide attention. Read about this case:

33 B St., Keyser, W. Va.

"Gentlemen:—I was taken sick in November, 1908. I grew steadily worse. Had two consultations. The verdict was the fever had affected my lungs and that my case was hopeless; only gave me two months to live. My physician had tried most all kinds of treatment and none did me any good, so he asked my husband if he objected to him trying a proprietary medicine. I began your Alterative. I was in bed from November 30, 1908, until February 25, 1909, and was thought dying several times. Today I am healthier and stronger than ever." (Abbreviated.)

(Signed) MRS. H. K. BRILEY.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size, $1; regular size, $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of recoveries.

WHAT IS MITTENS WORTH?

Any expert cat fancier will confer a favor upon Elsie Ferguson if he or she will acquaint the actress with the value of "Mittens." Mittens is Miss Ferguson's favorite and indeed only pet, and accompanies her on all her tours. He is a Persian cat, but no no ordinary feline, be it known, being of the tortoise shell variety and a perfect specimen. So far as is known, there are less than a half dozen of his sex in this country. Miss Ferguson only learned of late that the animal, which was a present to her, is extremely valuable. Cat clubs and individual fanciers have offered prizes as high as $1,000 for such a cat. One well known fancier has stated that Mitten is worth $2,000 and another equally prominent competent to judge has said $50,000.

What Elsie Ferguson wants to know is: which figure is right?

Something of a Novelty.

URGES U. S. MADE FLEET PURCHASED BY THE PEOPLE

CHICAGO, May 19.—A merchant marine built by popular subscription was the suggestion made today by Wilbur Wynant, president of the United Photo Plays company.

"Let each state raise enough funds for a ship that will bear its name," said Wynant.

Quickly Relieves Without Distress

The congestion of waste and refuse from the stomach, fermenting in the bowels, generates poisonous gases that occasion distress and invite serious illness. Health and comfort demand that this congestion be speedily relieved and the foul mass expelled.

The well-founded objection most people have to the violence of cathartic and purgative agents is overcome by using the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A dose at night brings relief next morning, without discomfort or inconvenience. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white rice voile, trimmed with shadow lace; she carried a bouquet of lilies and ferns and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Asa Donaldson, who wore an embroidered voile dress.

Omit Egg Yolk When Bilious.

People who suffer from biliousness will find that the elimination of the egg yolk from the usual breakfast dish will help relieve this trouble. Have the eggs cooked medium soft and have the yolk removed before serving. The whites contain all the essential tissue-building qualities and are more easily digested.

DON'T WASH YOUR HAIR WITH SOAP

When you wash your hair, don't use soap. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

CAPTIVES' INTEREST CENTERS ONLY ON THE END OF WAR

Which Side Wins a Small Matter to Them Compared with Getting Home Again

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

DOEBERITZ PRISON CAMP, Germany, May 3, by Mail to New York.—Germany has 8,000 English, Russian, French and Belgian soldiers imprisoned here now. And the two questions I was asked by the men with whom I talked as I tramped over this great camp today were: "When will the war end?" and "Was Jack Johnson whipped at Havana?"

The end of the war, which means freedom for them, and events in the field of sport are the only two things that interest these prisoners now. They have almost ceased to care which side may be victorious. They want the war to be over so they may return home.

Nearly every prisoner lives in a bound to America by many ties. My guide was Dr. Kurt Ed Imberg, who was elected a fellow at Princeton university last spring. The treasurer of the camp, H. Heins, is a brother of the president of the Bosch Magneto company of New York, and Carl Frey, another camp officer, was a German sculptor who had worked on the exterior decorations of the New York city library.

Nearly every prison r lives in a frame shanty—about fifty to a shanty. Doeberitz has its own postoffice, corner store, hospital and shower baths, and is a small village in itself.

The food was substantial, clean and well cooked. The sleeping quarters, according to another American who accompanied me on the trip, are better than those provided for the American troops at Texas City.

NOTED ACTRESS OF SCANDINAVIA COMING

The royal actress Betty Nansen, known as the Scandinavian Bernhardt, who William Fox brought to this country to appear in photoplays supreme, will be the big feature at the Majestic next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. She will appear in Anna Karennina, her second made-in-America release.

Anna Karennina is Count Tolstoi's masterpiece and was produced under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards. It is a heart gripping story of a love-starved woman's struggle for happiness. Anna Karennina, the heroine of this remarkable drama, is the wife of a Russian diplomat high in the councils of his country. This man, cold, reserved and wholly wrapped up in his duties, gives neither time nor attention to his young wife. Anna, though she respects her husband and adores her little son, yet craves the love which she feels is the right of every woman, and when Count Vronsky, a young cavalry officer, offers her the admiration and devotion which are denied her in her home, she eagerly grasps her chance for happiness. The inevitable results happen. Rich and beautiful though she be and of exalted social position, Anna finds that she cannot defy the conventions. She is cast off by her husband and denied a sight of her son. Her former friends desert her; she is an outcast from society where she formerly reigned a queen. At last she even begins to distrust her lover. Wearied by her unequal struggle, Anna finds this last blow too much to bear and she seeks in death a release from worldly sorrows.

Miss Nansen is supported by Edward Jose, who made such a big hit in "A Fool There Was."

Class Distinction.

GERMANS FAIL TO GAIN IN BLOODY CHARGE IN FOG

Seize Upon Mist to Cloak Advance on Yser Canal but Machine Guns Break Up Rush

PARIS, May 19.—A bloody battle in the mists overhanging Flanders resulted in the repulse of a strong German detachment with severe losses.

How the Germans seized upon the fog and rain to cloak their advance on the east bank of the Yser was told in official dispatches today. They approached to within a few yards of the French trenches and opened the attack by showering bombs and hand grenades. Then they charged.

Machine guns shattered their foremost columns. The first line was almost completely annihilated. Supporting companies broke and retreated in great disorder.

Except at this point there has been a lull in the fierce struggle around Ypres and Arras.

JENSEN IN COURT SAYS HAROLD MAY WAS GOING FAST

Ida Micksehl's Husband Killed by Motorcycle on Mormon Coulee Road Last Fall

"It is my fault—I was going faster than I ought to have."

This, according to Henry Jensen, in circuit court this morning, is what Harold May, being sued by Mrs. Ida Micksehl for the death of her husband, said to him after May had struck Micksehl with his motorcycle.

Jensen said he was the first to go to Micksehl after he was struck.

The case was opened in circuit court yesterday afternoon and was not placed in the hands of the jury until this afternoon.

John Konetchy, father of Eddie Konetchy, famous first baseman for the Pittsburgh Federals, was a witness in the case. Konetchy and others said May was traveling at a high rate of speed.

The parallel cases of E. H. Derr, city sealer of weights and measures, and August Freimark, both struck by Milwaukee trains as they were crossing Caledonia street in automobiles, and both suing the company for damages, were scheduled for circuit court this afternoon.

The two suits of Percy D. Bentley, architect, against the John A. Salzer Seed company, and the Governor's Guard association, also were booked for trial today.

MRS. VAN BUREN CALLED

Mrs. Sarah B. Van Buren, mother of Mrs. E. B. Shouse, 217 South Ridgewood avenue, Daytonia, Fla., well known in La Crosse, died at her daughter's home this morning. Mrs. Van Buren was 86 years old. The body has been temporarily placed in the receiving vault at the Daytonia cemetery.

Mrs. Van Buren was a member of the Episcopal church here and formerly lived at the E. G. Perkins home.

R. W. DAVIS HEADS THE COUNTY BOARD OLD RULES STAND

Vote on Chairmanship Is Almost Unanimous in Favor of Old Office Holder

By an almost unanimous vote, R. W. ("Dick") Davis was today reelected to the chairmanship of the La Crosse county board of supervisors for the seventh successive time.

Supervisor V. S. Kepple received three votes, and Supervisor W. C. Winter, one vote. A motion of Supervisor A. N. Moore to unanimously elect Chairman Davis was overruled and the office was balloted upon.

With one exception, the former rules of the board stand unamended. Chairman Davis recommended that the finance committee be changed from four to five members, and the plan was adopted.

P. F. Apgar, Bertillon expert, and Chief of Police John B. Webber spoke to the supervisors this morning on the advisability of the county and city joining in the purchase of the detection system. Chief Webber maintained that the efficiency of the sheriff's department and the police would be raised fifty per cent.

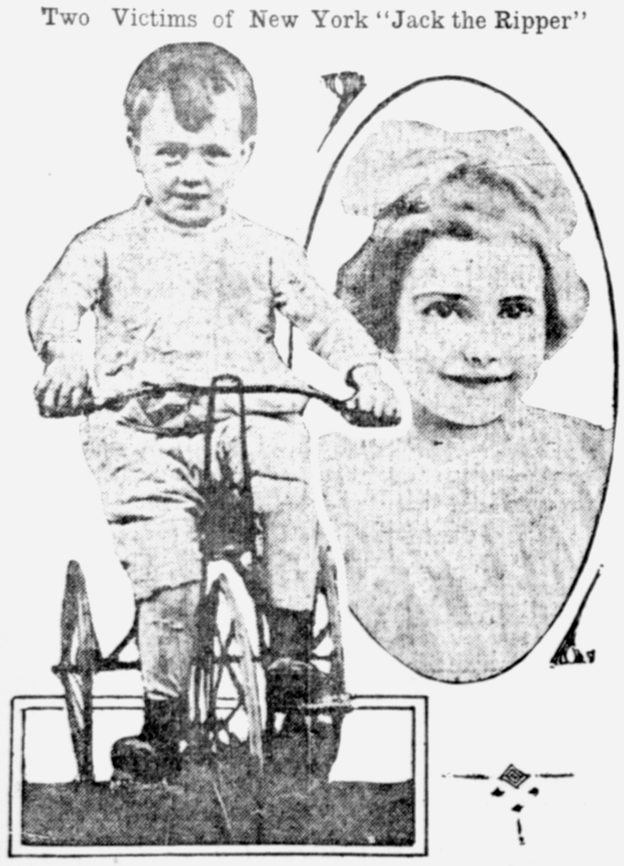
Two Victims of New York "Jack the Ripper"



Charley Murray

Leonore Anna Cohen

One tenement house section of New York city containing hundreds of thousands of foreigners is in a furor over the murder of two children by a "Jack the Ripper." More than 100 detectives of the police force are on the hunt for the murderer, who they believe is a maniac lucky enough so far to escape.

Leonore Anna Cohen, five years old, was attacked in the second floor hallway of her home, in the tenement at No. 352 Third avenue, March 19. Her abdomen was slashed. No sound was heard by tenants. The murderer made a clean escape.

Charlie Murray, four years old, was attacked in the ground floor hallway of the tenement in which he lived, No. 270 First avenue. His abdomen was ripped open with two long knife slashes in precisely the same manner as that of the little girl. The crime was committed swiftly and in absolute silence, at the dinner hour, with tenants in their rooms on all sides. The murderer escaped without leaving the slightest clue.

The utter recklessness displayed by the criminal of this type is shown in the fact that both crimes were committed about the dinner hour, in the open hallways of crowded tenement buildings, with a polyglot, excitable population teeming on all sides. The cleverness displayed by both murderers is evident from the manner in which they made their appearance on the scene of the crime and their escape afterward. Despite the pools of blood found beside the bodies of both little victims, and the certainty that their assailants must have carried away long bladed, blood stained knives, no person was found in tither case who had seen the murderers depart.

DOCTOR SOLD DOPE TO SCHOOL GIRLS IN HOLLOW TOY TOPS

NEW YORK, May 19.—Concealed in mechanical tops, cocaine had been sold to a score or more girls attending a public school in the Washington Heights district, it was learned today, following the arrest of Dr. James Kling. In the doctor's handsomely furnished apartment the police found $50,000 worth of "dope"—cocaine, morphine and heroin.

Kling confessed, according to the police, that he had been selling the "dope" to school girls. He concealed the drug in mechanical tops, the heads of which lifted out. The police say Kling also admitted that he had disposed of $200,000 worth of "dope" to dealers here in the past few weeks.

FISHER RESIGNS AND CABINET OF BRITISH CHANGES

ner accepted the responsibility offered him, as his right. He had, in fact, insisted upon it, and had declined to accept the office of minister of war without absolute authority.

"War to Begin in May"

During the long months of German successes last summer and of German steadfastness during the autumn and winter, Lord Kitchener told his people to have patience and to give him time. "The war will begin in May," he said, and England was content, believing Kitchener to be infallible.

But, when spring came, and May came, too, the expected offensive could not be developed. The men were there, but the ammunition was not. Lord Kitchener had not anticipated this war was to develop into a contest of ammunition. After Neuve Chapelle, Kitchener complained because Sir John French's artillery had fired more shells than were used during the entire Boer war. Sir John French immediately journeyed to London and faced Lord Kitchener and the government. There was a memorable session and Sir John French's insistence that he must have practically unlimited ammunition was not only agreed to, but also Sir John French was allowed to make public his demand in his report of the Neuve Chapelle battle.

This clash between Sir John French and Lord Kitchener was not the first of its kind. The temperaments of the two men are entirely different. Sir John French is a thorough democrat. Lord Kitchener is a typical absolutist. Sir John French wanted publicity given to military movements, and believed the British empire should be told what its citizen army was doing. Lord Kitchener, however, has a contempt for all newspaper publicity, except where he himself is personally concerned. It was intended early in the war that Kitchener should lead the second British army into France. Newspapermen, said Kitchener could not go with Sir John French's expeditionary force, but they might possibly accompany the second army.

Upset His Censorship

This policy of ignoring public opinion, Lord Kitchener carried to the furthest limits. Englishmen accepted the irksome press restrictions because they had faith in Kitchener and because they believed the Kitchener censorship was part of the machinery whereby the British armies were to move forward in secret and overwhelm the Germans. But one man in England saw early in the war that the censorship was going to end disastrously. This man was Lord Northcliffe, proprietor of the London Times and other papers. Lord Northcliffe began a campaign in favor of publicity of war news at a time when even to suggest the possibility that Kitchener might be capable of making mistakes was almost accounted treason. The term "Kitchener's army" was forbidden to be used in Lord Northcliffe's newspapers and Northcliffe began to preach that in a popular war, the people should know what their sons, brothers and husbands were doing for their country. Other newspapers followed his daring lead and at last the censorship was modified. Kitchener's early threat to have offending editors shot became a dead letter. Democracy had overthrown absolutism, and the newspapers for the first time since the war began were allowed this spring to tell Englishmen the truth.

The truth revealed Kitchener to be no more than a human being, possessing his full quota of frailties. He was seen to be above everything else, a centralist, and a man incapable of delegating authority. Kitchener refused to allow any one other than himself to direct the production of war supplies. Unless he did it, he believed there were certain to be disastrous errors.

At last, after Sir John French's insistent pleas for more ammunition, it became necessary for the government to curb Kitchener. A special committee was appointed to relieve the war minister of the work of directing the manufacture of munitions.

Then, confidence in the government began to decline. The government as a whole was attacked, on the long establish British principle that ministerial responsibility is collective. At the same time, there was growing resentment with the lack of spectacular results by the navy. Newspapers began assailing Winston Churchill, for the purpose of showing that popular disapproval of the way the war was going, was more than an impersonal objection.

Thus, while the ministerial crisis is due on the surface to the trouble at the admiralty, the real cause is far deeper, and concerns Lord Kitchener more than any one else. It does not seem immediately probable, however, that Lord Kitchener will be removed from office. His future responsibilities, however, will be greatly curtailed, and it is possible England will create a new ministerial department, which will have charge of keeping up the supplies of munitions.

WIFIE CHOSE HER FRIENDS HIGH UP

NEW YORK, May 19.—Charging his wife, Clara Liebmann, with dividing her affections between eight men, whose names read like a page from the International Who's Who, Henry Liebmann, millionaire club man and half owner of the Obermeyer and Liebmann Brewing company, today filed suit for divorce.

Professor Curtis H. Page, of Northwestern University, Chicago, heads the list. A Dr. Ward Keator is next. The physician is alleged to have made Mrs. Liebmann's acquaintance in Griffith Corners, N. Y.

Of the other six correspondents named by the brewer, one is said to be a secret service agent of the kaiser, another in the service of the French government, while still others are Hugo Frey, of Chicago, Charles Day of Berlin, Ugo Nastrucci, of Zurich, Switzerland, and Henri Bargy, a dapper Parisian.

ROAD WORK WAITS ON LEGISLATURE

MADISON, Wis., May 19.—The state highway commission has advised towns that, in view of the uncertainey of the legislative will regarding highway aid, no advances in road work should be made until the legislature definitely decided upon its policy. Even after that, no work may be advanced by the county highway commissioner without the consent of the state highway commission, which will only be granted on the ground that advancing the work is necessary to save work already done, or that doing so produces a considerable saving in expense.

PHILIPP DEMANDS EXPENDITURE CUT

Says Property Tax of $8,741,000 Must Be Levied Unless Some Appropriations Are Repealed

URGES CHANGES IN METHODS

Special Message Asks That All Appropriations in Future Be Made in Separate Bills

MADISON, Wis., May 19.—Governor Emanuel L. Philipp sent his first special message to the legislature today. The governor makes a complete survey of the tax and finance problems of the state, making several specific recommendations to the legislature regarding their actions in future consideration of appropriation bills. According to the message a general property tax, in excess of all expected receipts of $8,741,000 must be levied this year, unless it is diminished by repeal of appropriations already granted.

"In other words," concludes the governor, "if amounts already appropriated are not reduced by legislative action, every dollar that is voted for any purpose from now on will come out of the general property tax and will be fixed in the tax levy by the legislature before it adjourns."

The governor recommends that the legislature make all appropriations in separate bills so that he will be given the opportunity to consider each bill in its relation to all other bills and to the state's program as a whole.

The governor points out in a one thousand word constitutional argument that whenever appropriations are made by the legislature a tax levy must be made to meet the appropriations. He says that this practice has not been uniformly followed in the state and that the present method should be utterly abandoned. He makes the following recomendations:

"I urge you to do your part in this respect and have faith that you will do so. Before adjourning do just what the constitution commands: make an estimate of deficiency in ordinary revenues to meet estimated expenses to be paid out of appropriations for each of the succeeding two fiscal years; add thereto any deficiency for the preceding years; and, by bill, levy a state tax to cover the total. No other state tax will meet with my approval, or will be made by my consent."

Governor Philipp also points out that improvement authorizations aggregating $1,542,000 against which no charges have as yet been made, are subject to repeal. These authorizations are as follows:

$225,000 agricultural board, state fair buildings.
$100,00 forestry investment fund.
$20,000 land department for reserve.
$50,000 Merrimac bridge.
$12,000 trade school (operation never charged against).
$50,000 administration building, Milwaukee.
$17,000 Madison street improvement.
$15,000 La Crosse normal.
$100,000 normal dormitories.
$350,000 university men dormitory and union.
$200,000 university physics building.
$150,000 university liberal arts building.
$58,000 university soils building.
$50,000 university shop buildings.
$75,000 university new building equipment.
$9,000 university Lincoln's statue.

The government also says that there are also improvement authorizations July 1, 1915, which should be revised to see if any of these should be postponed without injuring state work. These appropriations are as follows:

$50,000 forestry investment fund.
$10,000 land department.
045,000 county agricultural building—no construction contemplated blt authorization in force.
$20,000 highway bridges.
$25,000 board of control land.
$150,000 southern Wisconsin Home for Feeble Minded, which will carry a balance of $80,000 for improvements.
$75,000 Eau Claire normal, available March 1, 1916.
$47,000 university land contract.

ROCKEFELLER HEARS C. F. & I. FLAYED

Colorado Clergyman Employed by Company Denounces It at the Hearing

PUTTING ON SHACKLES AGAIN

In Six Months Only Another Strike Will Free Workers Commission Is Told

WASHINGTON, May 19. — John D. Rockefeller, Jr., sat all morning today in the hearing room of the Industrial Relations committee at the Shoreham Hotel, just as he sat all afternoon yesterday, waiting to testify as to his knowledge of conditions in Colorado.

Listening to the morning witness, Rev. Eugene S. Gaddis, could not have been pleasurable for Rockefeller. The minister, who went through the whole strike period as a Colorado Fuel and Iron company employe, in charge of sociological work, was very frank in his denunciation of some conditions. He denied emphatically that improvements described by L. M. Bowers as having been brought about through the latter's efforts ever have been made.

Bowers, he said, entered the Colorado strike situation because President Welborn of the company was not considered equal to handling it so Bowers came out from 26 Broadway.

The witness spoke of the average mine superintendent, as a blasphemous bully.

"If the investigating committee can be kept out of Colorado for another six months," he said, "the shackles will again be so securely riveted that it will take the hellish fires of another strike to break them."

Judge Northcup, who tried John Lawson, he stated, owns the Trinidad Chronicle Advertiser, which he asserted is filled with laudatory editorials concerning the Fuel and Iron company.

MARGUERITE CLARK IN "GRETNA GREEN"

Marguerite Clark, who through her former film vehicles, "Wildflower," "The Crucible" and "The Goose Girl," has won universal renown and popularity as a notable screen acquisition from the contemporary stage, adds another signal triumph to her list of stellar successes in the Famous Players Film company's delightful film adaptation of "Gretna Green," by the famous authoress and dramatist, Grace Livingston Furniss, on the Paramount program at the Bijou.

The original play was named after the celebrated spot of the same name in Scotland where, according to the law of the early nineteenth century, eloping couples were married by the local blacksmith, the town clerk, or in fact anybody who happened to be handy at the time such impromptu marriages occurred. About this novel fact is woven one of the most ingenious and amusing romances of the day.

This notable feature will unfortunately remain at the Bijou only three days, but within that time it is certain to attract all lovers of the higher form of screen drama. Showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week.

JUDGE TELLS JURY POINTS AT ISSUE IN BARNES SUIT

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 19.—After denying a motion of counsel for William Barnes to direct a verdict in the $50,000 libel suit against ex-President Roosevelt for the plaintiff today Justice Andrews outlined the points upon which the jury will pass. They are:

Did Barnes work through an alliance of crooked politics and crooked business?

Was there a corrupt alliance between Barnes and Charles F. Murphy, the leader of Tammany Hall, during the United States senatorial contest in 1911?

Nowadays when a feller's family has strawberries for dinner the neighbors begin to look wise and inquire where he got his money.

NAUGHTY JOY RIDES NOW TO BE BARRED BY CHARITIES WORK

Committee of Citizens to Be Named by Rev. Fr. Johnson Who Will Censor All Amusements of Young

Taxi rides after dark outside of the city limits by minors, railroad excursions to ball games, free use of the dance hall and saloons by youths of both sexes will be some of the things investigated by a new branch of the Associated Charities which will be formed in September.

A committee of five citizens will be appointed this week by Rev. William Everett Johnson, president of the Associated Charities, with instructions to arrange for a public meeting the first part of September to organize a La Crosse organization of juvenile protection similar to societies in all of the larger cities.

Recommendations for the plan which may be carried out when the organization is formed were offered to the board of directors in monthly session last night and adopted.

Aside from the censorship of dance halls, saloons and free use of the taxicab, the plan broached in the recommendations favored a continuance of the health work being done by the health department of La Crosse and the establishment of at least two more play grounds. The committee gave as their reasons for more playgrounds, the fact that many children lived at too great a distance from the present locations to enjoy their use.

Briefly the recommendations follow:

The presentation to the public in a more emphatic manner of the preventatives of evils arising from contagious diseases of children, and the work being done towards more sanitary condition by city nurses and officers of the Associated Charities.

To urge the regular attendance at churches and Sunday schools of which children are members.

To recommend at least two more play grounds for La Crosse.

A complete investigation into the recreations of children who have reached the age of adolescence—including the dance hall, the use of saloons by minors, the free use of automobiles in suburban trips by the youths of both sexes without adult chaperones, and similar trips by train to ball games, etc.

The investigation of the sale of liquor to minors.

The surveillance of factories where child labor may be employed.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY TO COME ON JUNE 4

The high school senior class play, "All-of-Sudden Peggy," will be given at the opera house June 4.

The play is a clever, modern comedy which cannot fail to please and amuse. Peggy O'Mara is a bright, frank Irish girl who by her impulsiveness and disregard of the conventional is always landing herself and other people in predicaments. Her mother, the widow O'Mara, is set on a marriage between her daughter and Lord Anthony Crackenthorpe. The two women ingratiate themselves with his lordship by their knowledge of and love for trap-door spiders. The proud Crackenthorpe family are determined to prevent this marriage and so prevail upon the younger son, Jimmy Keppel, to "dazzle" Peggy on his own account. Peggy does not wish to marry Lord Crackenthorpe, but she hatches a little plan of her own by which Sir Anthony shall be married to her mother. To accomplish this end, unbeknown to Jimmy, she feigns elopement with him. The characters are skilfully extricated from this bewildering plot and matters are finally settled to everyone's satisfaction.

The following are the cast:

Anthony, Lord Crackenthorpe, fellow of the Entomological society—Maynard Barney.

The Hon. Jimmy Keppel, his brother—Thomas Roche.

Major Archie Phipps, retired, Lady Crackenthorpe's brother — Alex Feinberg.

Jack Menzies, Jimmy's friend—Gordon Holway.

Parker, footman at Hawkhurst—Russell Anderson.

The Hon. Mrs. Coluhdun—Eunice Campbell.

F. AND M. PLAGUE KILLED

MADISON, Wis., May 19.—With the foot and mouth epidemic cleaned up, the probability of a recurrence of the disease is practically nil, according to Dr. O. H. Eliason, state veterinarian. Just as soon as a new case is discovered, in whatever state it may be, state and federal officials will pounce down upon it and smother it with a quick stroke of official authority. None have have this lesson learned more than officials in Illinois, it is said, where dilatory action in combatting the disease was responsible for its spread into neighboring states despite the strict regulations enforced to check it.

Appreciation.

The curtain descended slowly. Hamlet had died a beautiful death and was being carried out shoulder high and by his loyal friends. The audience sat with bated breath, impressed with the solemnity of the occasion. Not a whisper was heard and the silence was so intense you could hear the beating of your own heart. All at once a shrill whisper was heard distinctly, "My, aint that just swell!"

May Start a Dangerous Precedent.

"I fail to see the justice in sending that 'social lion' to the pen for four years," said Noyes E. Brewmore, "simply because he borrowed $10 or less from a few people. If that establishes a precedent, I certainly shall have to be more careful in the future with my touches."—Kansas City Star.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

BY J. W. T. MASON

NEW YORK, May 19.—The Austrians and Germans have won about eight thousand square miles of territory in Galicia since May 1, when the drives against the Russian positions in the west and south began. The entire western part of Galicia has been swept clear of the Slavs, and the Russians have been forced back from the Carpathians to a new battle front between twenty and forty miles north of the mountain passes. The reclaimed Galician territory has the same area as that part of France now in German possession. No other campaign of the war has had such rapid and extensive results as the present southeastern operations. About fifty per cent of the Galician land lately in possession of the invaders has been redeemed in seventeen days. Przemysl and Lemberg, however, remain to be taken. They are the centers of the two main defensive positions of the Russians. The Austrians and Germans are now before Przemysl, and are about forty miles away from Lemberg. With the recapture of these military bases, the Russian hold on Galicia will become negligible.

The Slavs are in danger, too, of being trapped, if they do not change the present direction of their retreat. They are keeping away from the Russian border of Galicia, and are moving southeast toward Bukovina. This effort to revenge the loss of Galicia by invading Bukovina is a perilous adventure. Bukovina is bounded on the east and south by Rumania. Once the Russians are in the crown colony, the Austrians and Germans might be able to close the northern exits which led into Galicia, and make impregnable the western Carpathian passes which run into Hungary and Transylvania.

The Russians would be caged then. If they were defeated there would be no escape. Either they would have to surrender on Bukovina soil, or they would be forced to retreat into Rumania. If they accepted the latter alternative, the Rumanian authorities would have to intern them.

The attempt of the Russian government, therefore, to create the impression that compensation for Galician losses are being won in Bukovina, must be disquieting to the western allies. The danger of a Russian debacle surpassing those of East Prussia is too near to be overlooked in London and Paris, however it may be neglected in Petrograd.

MAJORS WILL CUT MORE SAYS OWNER

Somers Predicts Reduction to Eighteen or Twenty Men Before Close of the Season

CLEVELAND, O., May 19.—All of the major league clubs are likely to cut their teams to eighteen or twenty players before the close of the present season, according to Charles W. Somers, owner of the Indians and Cleveland American association squads.

Somers said today he plans to reduce the Indians from twenty-five to twenty players at once.

"The era of big salaries has passed," he declared. "The player who gets more than $300 a month will be considered lucky next year. Both the Federals and organized baseball stand to lose huge sums."

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

Yesterday was a bad day for the heavy clouters and the magnates. Not a four base clout was registered, and the weather man handed the K. O. to the magnates in six cities.

Joy thought for athletes: May postponements mean June doubleheaders.

Poor old Honus Wagner only stole two bases, scored a run and handled seven chances.

The Cards fell on Al Demaree and knocked him off the mound. It's barely possible Mr. McGraw knew what he was doing when he let the famous cartoonist go.

"Bullet Joe" Bush went like a bullet yesterday, speeding right on to the shower bath after the White Sox lambasted him for eleven hits in seven innings.

Incidentally, Urban Faber, Rowland's chucker, won his sixth straight game.

The Cubs and Giants are a sorrowful bunch of athletes today. Gotham suffragettes offered five bucks for each run scored. The score was one to nothing. "If it was raining soup, I'd be caught with a pitchfork," lamented the well known Heine Zim.

George Kaiserling displayed some of the stuff that made him one of the best pitchers in Jim Gilmore's league last season and took a fall out Pittsburgh, the league leader.

ONALASKA PLAYS NELSONS SUNDAY

Old Time Rivals Will Clash at League Park; Athletes Play Return Game at Rushford

Onalaska, old time rivals of all La Crosse teams and especially of the Nelsons, will come to league park Sunday for a tilt with the north side clothiers. The game is expected to turn out the hardest fought of any game this year.

"Pants" and Fred Christopherson, the brother twirlers, are back with the Opaccos for the season. Irwin Comeau, brother of the manager of the Nelsons, and Arthur Holtnaus are slated for the catcher's berth. Theo. Comeau will probably work either Squiers or Sickles against the Onalaska bunch.

Returning the compliment paid La Crosse last Sunday by Rushford, the Athletes will journey to the Minnesota town to play Moppy Anderson and his team. Revenge is deep-seated in the Rushford team over their recent defeat, the town promising to make the game a gala event.

TWO LIGHTWEIGHT MATCHES IN SIGHT

Ritchie Mitchell Bests Ad at Milwaukee; Welsh Dickers for a Go with White

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 19.—Ritchie Mitchell, the home grown lightweight, today is in line for a match for the lightweight championship. Promoter Ben Steinel promised the winner of last night's Mitchell-Wolgast go a match with Freddie Welsh. Despite the fact that Ritchie broke a bone in his left hand in the fourth he treated the former champion to a beautiful lacing, taking every round by a big margin, except the first which was even. He not only outboxed Ad, but on one occasion out-slugged him. Wolgast weighed 135 and Mitchell 128. Frankie Brennan, Detroit Welter, knocked out Eddie Francke of Milwaukee in five rounds.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Prospects for a championship go between Freddie Welsh and Charlie White, assumed healthy proportions today following receipt of a telegram of White's manager from Harry Pollock, manager of the champion, asking Lewis to use his influence to get the promoters to raise Freddie's end $2,000. Denver impressarios are dickering for the bout, which, if arranged, will be staged July 5.

Welsh has been offered $13,000 for his end, but wants another $2,000. White already has accepted terms. The bout is scheduled to go twenty rounds.

No Time to Get Divorce.

The Lawyer—"You really want a divorce?" The Wife—"Yes." The Lawyer—"All right. What about the alimony?" The Wife—"He can't pay any alimony." The Lawyer—"Eh! What is this—a practical joke? Take my advice, madam, and go back home and wait until he gets something. Fifty dollars, please."

Necessity of Labor.

Labor is not only requisite to preserve the coarser organs in a state fit for their functions, but it is equally necessary to those finer and more delicate organs on which and by which the imagination and perhaps other powers act.—Edmund Burke.

C. CASHION SHOWS CLASS WITH MILLERS

Carl Cashion.

Mike Cantillon, who, with his brother Joe, owns the Minneapolis club, is loud in his praise for Carl Cashion, formerly with the Washington Americans, who is playing first base for the Millers this season. "There never was such hitting as Cashion is doing for our team," said Cantillon a few days ago.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

KONETCHY WOULD BRING PITTFEDS HERE FOR SERIES

Team Has Five Open Dates and Tries to Arrange Dates with the Athletes

La Crosse baseball fans may soon have a chance to see Eddie Konetchy and his band of Pittsburg compatriots cavort on local pastures. John C. Elliott, father of baseball in La Crosse, recently received a letter from Koney asking that efforts be made to arrange a series of two games with the Athletes.

Five open dates in a row between June 7 and 11 is the cause of the attempt of the La Crosse man to bring the major-minor leaguers here. The team will lay over in Chicago for the five days unless they are able to book exhibition games. La Crosse, being Konetchy's home, was naturally picked for the place to while away the time.

The management of the Athletes has not yet decided what to do with the matter. The expense of bringing the twenty-one men of the Pittfeds here would be $500, a sum large in the minds of local promoters. Whether or not the series will be arranged lies with the sentiment of the La Crosse baseball world. President George Krause of the Athletes said today. "Promise support and we will bring the Federals here," is the tone of the Athletes' management.

TEN SCHOOLS ARE ENTERED FOR MEET AT NORMAL SCHOOL

Ten schools will be represented in the annual interscholastic track and field meet to be held Saturday at the Normal field under the auspices of the La Crosse state normal school. The announcement was made today by Dr. Carl B. Sputh, director of athletics at the school and sponsor of the meet.

La Crosse high school, with an entry list of ten men, is expected to carry off the majority of the honors of the meet, although reports from other schools portend keen competition. The Red and Black this year have one of the strongest squads in the history of the institution and are well fitted to occupy the place of favorites in the classic outdoor activities.

WILLIE FEELS BAD AFTER DRAW BOUT WITH MAT BALDWIN

BOSTON, Mass., May 19.—Willie Ritchie was badly disappointed today over his comeback bout with Matty Baldwin at the Atlas Athletic association last night. Matty proved to be some comeback scrapper himself, and although the former lightweight champion had a shade in the first nine rounds, Baldwin carried the fighting to him in the last three sessions of the twelve round bout, and Referee Billy John of New York declared it a draw.

Those fellers who brag that they have never taken a vacation in their lives generally look the part.

"Ignorance of the Law."

Take an innocent little statute. One lawyer (maybe a country counselor) says it is dead. Another lawyer says it is alive. The poor little statute does not know whether it is coming or going, whether it is alive or dead, afoot or horseback. And yet "no man can plead ignorance of the law." A man may go to jail if he does not know the law—unless he is a lawyer. Oh, you Exact Science!—Kansas City Times

PUPILS DISCUSS "HIGH" CLASS DAY

While the rest of the high school was in general assembly this morning, the graduating class of 1915 was holding a class meeting in the senior study hall.

Plans for the class day exercises were discussed and much enthusiasm was shown on the part of the grads at the present plans of the class day committees. All seniors are pledged to secrecy on this subject, as the class day will be in the form of prophecies and "take offs" on teachers and students twenty years hence. Plans for an elaborate celebration are being made and the class will endeavor to make their class day as successful as the class day of the class of 1912, which, the faculty claim, "can't be beat."

June fifth was decided on as the day for the class picnic, when both February and June classes will go upon some excursion for the day to celebrate the end of their high school careers. Plans for making the class play "Up to the Minute Peggy" a success were also discussed and tickets given out for the advance sale. The democratic high school prices will prevail in this as in the "Mikado," the highest priced seat being fifty cents.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Prices were generally up at opening of the stock market with trading fairly active. Union Pacific showed an initial gain of ⅞, selling at 124⅜. Southern Pacific up ¼ at 86¾.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, May 19.—Weak cables, sudden checking of ravages of the Hessian fly and other grain destroying pests by cold and rains caused lower wheat prices today. At the opening prices showed overnight recessions of 7-8, 5-8 and 3-8. Later in the day there were further recessions of 1 3-8, 1 1-8 and 1 below the opening.

Corn exhibited little activity and what there was came on the selling side. This, together with wheat's weakness, caused lower corn prices. May was very dull, there being no sales until late in the day. July opened 1-8 down; September opened unchanged. Later there were recessions of 3-4 and 5-8 in July and September.

Oats reflected the weakness of the other grains, being unchanged to down 1-8 at the opening and later receding 1-2, 5-8 and 3-8 below the opening.

On increased receipts and the general downward trend, provisions were unchanged to lower today.

Cannot Lose Real Good.

We cannot lose any real good. Friends pass from our sight, but our lives are the stronger and more beautiful for that friendship. Effort and achievement are forgotten, but the long-ago struggle and the victory won are armor for new contests today. Happiness lives on as sweet memories. Self-sacrifice abides as unselfishness. Whatever of good we have known, is ours as long as we love the good.

BANKER LAMBASTS THE COLLAR FILERS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 19.—Laundrymen in attendance at the Northwestern Laundrymen's convention here heard a few plainly spoken words from an outsider when Harry W. Parker, St. Paul banker, said:

"You laundrymen are the cause of more soul-racking profanity than any other business men on the face of the globe. Your steel edged collars that rip and file are the harbingers of domestic ritts, the progenitors of the grouch."

I never heard of a pig that would chaw tobacker or drink whiskey.

Camden, N. J.—"I had a deep seated cough, was run-down, and my lungs were weak and sore. I had tried everything suggested without help. One evening I read about Vinol and decided to try it. Soon I noticed an improvement. I kept on taking it and today I am a well man. The soreness is all gone from my lungs, I do not have any cough and have gained fifteen pounds." — FRANK HILLMAN.

Captain of Leyland Liner Tells of Narrow Escape When S. O. S. Had Brought Him to Scene

BOSTON, Mass., May 19.—Three trans-Atlantic steamers were within a few miles of the Lusitania when the big Cunarder was torpedoed and sunk off Kinsale and caught the liner's wireless "S. O. S." according to Captain W. F. Wood of the Leyland liner Etonian, which docked here yesterday. All three, Captain Wood said, narrowly escaped meeting a similar fate.

"At 2:08 p. m. on May 7th," Captain Wood said, "we received the general S. O. S. signal from the Lusitania, saying she had been torpedoed and was listing heavily. Her position was given off Kinsale. The steamer City of Exeter was about a half mile ahead of us and the oil tanker Narragansett was about fifteen miles ahead. The Narragansett turned and when she had reached the location given by the Lusitania she reported nothing in sight.

"At the same time she reported that an attempt had been made to torpedo her. Then suddenly the Exeter changed course and crossed our bows at great speed. About the same time a submarine's periscope was sighted about a quarter of a mile away. It dove and came to the surface again at our stern.

"The chief engineer took full charge, setting every stoker to work. We got away at a rate of 15 knots, but soon sighted directly ahead the superstructure of another submarine. We doubled back on our course and in twenty minutes had out-distanced this one. We were then about 16 miles from where the Lusitania sank and as the Narragansett reported nothing in sight we proceeded to Boston."

Late dispatches today stated that the fighting in Central Mexico has ceased temporarily, both sides being exhausted.

HOW A GERMAN SUBMARINE SIGHTED AND SUNK THE LUSITANIA

BERLIN PAPER SAYS BRITISH CAST NOTE

BERLIN, via The Hague, May 19.—The Tages Zeitung today characterized as "brusque" the demand in the American note that Germany change her submarine tactics and added:

"Any one who reads this note without bias, can scarcely escape the impression that the British ambassador at Washington was not far away when it was framed. Its contents might easily be imagined to be an excerpt from a speech by Premier Asquith in the British house of commons."

Acid Mouth—Loose Teeth—Corrected

Avoid exposing the teeth to extremes of temperature, says the London Chronicle. Hot and cold substances tend to break the enamel, and when these cracks are exposed to dental microbes there is real danger, as infestments occur in which the tiny animal microbes bore through the enamel, gradually eating big holes into the large molars. Teeth extraction is always to be avoided—pull a tooth and you make room for more trouble. The teeth separate from one another or come together too closely for comfort, gum separation, yellow coating of the enamel, blackened teeth inside, bring a train of troubles. You soon have bleeding gums, ulcerated teeth, distortions, sensitiveness to heat or cold, desire to dig the teeth, protruding or receding teeth.

Now, all these conditions may be avoided if you will get from your druggist about four ounces of fluid ergan (you won't need more), and use a teaspoonful morning, noon and night, working it about the teeth for a minute or so. The gritty substances are dissolved, soreness disappears over night, sensitiveness departs, the dirty yellow is cleaned off and you set the white of your own enamel.
